Grange Camp Association Course All Ready for the Opening.

MANY FLYERS ALREADY ON HAND

A First-class Track With Every Accommodation for Both the Public and Horsemen on Alexander's Island-With Favorable Action by Judge Keith the Sport Will Go On.

Everything is in readiness at the race course of the Grange Camp Association on Alexander's Island for the opening of the race meeting, which will in all probability be commenced next Thursday afternoon. Judge customers we have are those | Reith will hear arguments at Warrenton this morning on the application for an injunction to restrain racing, but the officials of the association are confident the application will We have a good, reliable be refused, because of there being no tenable ground for the applicants for the injunction to stand upon. In the event of a favorable decision, the programme for the first three days of the meeting will be immediately is-sued, and the sport will go on without inter-

> It will be a source of surprise to anyone who has not visited the locality of the race course to witness the change in the appearance of things wrought in a few weeks by the expenditure of money and the work of several hundred men. Out of the marshes of Alexander's Island has arisen a perfectly appointed race course, and nowhere in this country can be found a better spot for such a place. Hight upon the banks of the Potomac the property of the association is bounded, and unexcep-tionable facilities are offered both man and beast for bathing in the water. Everything about the place is new, and the appearance of things is bound to find favor with both horsemen and public. Already the stables are well filled with flyers, there being over 200 on the ground, with hearly as many nore ready to be brought there just as soon more ready to be brought there just as soon as the programme is issued. The stables are located in the northern section of the property, sufficiently removed from the grand stand to dissuade the curious from venturing a visit to the quarters of the horses. There are twenty rows of stable buildings, each capable of accommodating about twelve horses, with commodious kitchen and living quarters.

But the track itself is a thing of joy and beauty. It is an ellipse of three-quarters of a mile, with a chute five-eighths of a mile straight away. The grand stand has been straight away. The grand shall has even completed, and will accommodate about 2,000. Underneath is located the betting pavillon, and adjoining is the paddock, giving all an easy view of the horses just before a race. The entire course has been piped, and the arrangements are perfect for sprinkling the track. Nothing has been left undone to make the course a perfect one in every respect,

The track itself is wider than either Benning or Ivy City, it being eighty feet in the stretch and turns and sixty feet in the backstretch. All races of five-eighths or half a mile will be run on the straight, while those of longer distances will be run on the regular track. An electric bell will announce the start in the betting ring, and probably one of the best features is the location of the judges' stand, which is but slightly elevated from the surface of the track. By this arrangement there will be no possibility of a horse finishing on the rail being overlooked, as was done on several occasions at last Winter's Benning

One of the attractions of the new course is the view from the grand stand, all the principal points and buildings of interest in the city being distinctly visible as in a panoramic picture. During the warm weather whatever breeze there may be can be obtained by the occupants of the grand stand, as the broad expanse of the Potomac offers facilities for its

Quite a number of the stables which have wintered at Benning and Ivy City have taken quarters at the course, and as many of the horsemen who have been running their charges at the southern tracks have engaged charges at the southern tracks have engaged stabling accommodations. There will be at least 300 horses at the course on the opening day, with many more ready to come on just as soon as the ball is started rolling. Bradley. Sale, Carroll, Miller, Denovan, Hikok, Tomp-kins and many other owners have taken pos-session of stables, and their horse are being worked regularly. As an evidence of how good is the track, three-quarters has aiready been covered in 1:1714, which speaks well for the new course.

SPARRING CONTESTS TO-NIGHT.

Eureka Athletic Club Will Provide Good Sport for the Public.

The Eureka Athletic Club will make its initial bow to the sporting public at its club house at Highland Station, Md., this evening. The card contains several bouts beis worth. All it wants is tween well-known local pugilists, and the contests will without doubt be among the a promise-that you can most interesting given to Washington sportsmen during the current season. Interest centers about the go between Bolan and Cal-onkeepers of East Washington Have Gala Day at Stagmeir's Farm.

O'BRIENS VS. BABBINGTONS.

Again the O'Briens have triumphed, and the saioonkeepers of East Washington had a great field day. The strong T. A. Babbington team fell before the mighty siuggers at Stagmeir's farm, Highlands, yesterday. But it was a hard pull for the victors. With the score standing 13 to 2 in the ninth, the O'Briens thought they had a plumber's bill cinch on the game. Three runs had been scored by the Babbingtons with two men on bases. The friends of the defeated club were cheering their favorities on, and just at a moment when the Company of the same and for the surface of the same law firm, the petition says she was 19 years old October 31 inst, and that she was married October 25 inst. Judge McAdam in the superior court yesterday Mrs. Coghlan No. 2 asked that William A. Boeckel, of the same law firm, the appointed the guardian, as she is a minor. Her petition says she was 19 years old October 31 inst, and that she was married October 32 inst, and that she was married October 30 inst, and that she was married October 30 inst, and that she was married October 31 inst, and that she was married October 30 inst, and that she was married October 30 inst, and that she was married October 31 inst, and that she was married October 30 inst, and bases. The friends of the defeated club were cheering their favorites on, and just at a moment when the O'Briens were terribly rattled De Monterville and Liston won victory by a brilliant double play, retiring the side with the score 13 to 12. It came so quick, so bewilderingly, that the Babbingtons knew not what was the cause of the outburst of applause by the O'Brien contingent. It was all over in a second, and then there was a general run for the—water pail.

Paris Bicycle Tournament.

Paris, May 20.—The Swiss rider Lesna won the long distance bicycle race from Bordeaux to Paris, having covered the distance in twenty-five hours, eleven minutes, and seven seconds. Lucas, one of the English riders, finished second, being thirty-two minutes be-hind Lesna. Samson, another English rider, was third. The other eighty-seven contest-ants who started have not yet arrived in centers about the go between Bolan and Callahan, while that between Billy O'Brien, of Newark, and the local light-weight colored champion, Frank Holcomb, is a matter of guesswork among those who have followed local events during this season.

Holcomb recently defeated Monk Robinson in a whiriwind go at Bock Hill Park, and O'Brien is the man whom Bolan bested earlier in the season. Both these bouts will be well cortested, and considerable money has been wagered on the results.
